History is one of my favorite subjects! After all, I taught it for years at Elmhurst College. Some of my students would say I am notorious for teaching history. Others might say I taught history with an accent. Of course, that is not true. I've never heard my accent! Frankly, teaching history for many years has been gratifying. However, being alive and participating in making history is exhilarating.

The Evangelical Hospital Association has and is making history. For the churches, the Auxiliaries, the medical staffs, the School of Nursing and the employees of the Association, history is a dynamic, living story. It is the good news of Christ's command to go preach, teach and heal. They are continuing the vision of health in the ministry of Christ which our ancestors in 1906 dreamed and worked for. Over the years they, and we, know "It's not the years that count. It's what we've done with them."

A people of faith believe and know that God in Christ calls us to do "greater works than these." We are in history to make history. Our faith motivates us to do deeds of love. God's love empowers us to stretch out our hands in healing the sick in hospitals and clinics, providing shelter for the widow and the widower, developing educational centers to train persons in the healing arts and sciences.

The Evangelical Hospital Association is a living testimony of seventy-five years of history-making in the name of Christ's healing and teaching ministry. Let's join hands with the Association in soaring into God's future, continuing to provide even greater works of faith through health care in the ministry of Christ.
